Coastal Alabama Community College Pow Wow Leadership Society Service and Fellowship Information

Who We Are: The Pow Wows are student ambassadors that serve as the official hosts and hostesses for Coastal Alabama Community College. Pow Wows are chosen from interested high school seniors and current Coastal Alabama students each fall and spring semester. Students in Pow Wow want to be involved in the life of Coastal Alabama beyond the classroom.

What We Do: Whether we are guiding tours on Coastal Alabama's campuses for high school students, greeting the community at a function, or working with a service agency in the community, Coastal Alabama Pow Wows are always representing Coastal Alabama and serving the community. Working with the Pow Wows is also a great way to learn and practice leadership skills. And, by the way, we also spend some real quality time talking and eating together.

What We Ask: In addition to attending regular business meetings, the Pow Wow Ambassadors give a minimum of 50 hours of service to the College each semester. We are looking for responsible students who are willing to take a leadership role at Coastal Alabama Community College.

How You Can Join Us: Applications for the Coastal Alabama Pow Wows are available in the College's Admissions Office or through your high school counselor. There is a great deal of interest and a limited number of openings in the group each spring and fall semester. Students who complete and return an application must go through an interview process. Selection is based on leadership and service experience, academic performance, and personal qualities demonstrated through the interview process.
